I'd love a place where, when you need a few hours to get work done, you can go, take your child, and do what you need to do. The balance for working moms is so hard. How nice would it be to have a co-working place with good wi-fi and access to printers where you can bring your kid to have fun while you do your thing without being interrupted, without a kid hanging off you, for just a few hours? You'd pay a drop-in fee. You'd get a little more balance.
